Important information for pupils applying to Medicine, Dentistry, Veterinary Medicine or Law courses

There is information available about this on the UCAS website (www.ucas.com/ucas/undergraduate/getting-started/entryrequirements/admissions-tests)

Medicine and Dentistry: All applicants to degree courses in Medicine and Dentistry must sit an aptitude test. The UKCAT (UK Clinical Aptitude Test) is being used by all Scottish universities (and the majority of those outside Scotland). This is an aptitude test, which does not draw on any particular body of knowledge that a candidate can learn in advance. There is more information about this on the UKCAT website www.ukcat.ac.uk.

Law: The LNAT (National Admissions Test for law) is being used by University of Glasgow (and other institutions outside Scotland) to assess applications to all courses in Law, including joint degrees in Law and another subject. There is more information about this on the LNAT website www.lnat.ac.uk.

The BMAT (BioMedical Admissions Test) is used by a small number of universities including Oxford, Cambridge, Royal Veterinary College London, Imperial College London and University College London. More information at www.bmat.org.uk
- Cambridge University: for entry to Medicine and Veterinary Medicine.
- Oxford University: for Biomedical Sciences.
- Royal Veterinary College: for entry to Veterinary Medicine.
- Imperial College, London: for Biomedical Science courses.
